A black cop tries to get his life back after losing it all since fatally shooting an unarmed black teen.

While Officer Lincoln Holly and Officer Manny Juarez are chasing after suspects of an alleged jewelry store robbery, things go horribly wrong as Holly shoots and kills unarmed African-American teen, Nicky James. With the community in an uproar, and Holly found guilty of involuntary manslaughter, Holly finds himself without a job and his family gone due to his new found admiration for alcohol and self loathing. Forced to deal with his past demons, Holly befriends truth-seeking reporter Dominique Fox and together they uncover an unbelievable secret behind the shooting and get to see first hand how far the media is willing to go for a "hot" story.
